

Arena Solutions enables small and mid-size manufacturers to deliver quality products to market on time and on budget.

Arena helps small and mid-size manufacturers meet product cost targets, quality requirements and delivery dates by providing visibility into, and control of, their product data from design through manufacturing.

Why collaborative BOM and change management?

More than 50,000 small and mid-size manufacturers struggle to get their products to market on time and within budget because they have no systematic way to track, organize or share their product information. While they may have learned to manage through challenges like missed ship dates and supplier miscommunications, they find catastrophic consequences like lost revenue and six-figure scrap and rework charges increasingly hard to accept.

Arena resolves this dilemma by centralizing bills of materials (BOMs) and related product information so manufacturers and their suppliers can capture, share, analyze and control their constantly changing product record.

Why Arena?

The repository for the product record, Arena sits at the epicenter of the broader product lifecycle management (PLM) landscape, connecting with systems like CAD, EDA, PDM and ERP and linking organizations with their supply chains. With its on-demand, software-as-a-service (SaaS) approach, Arena is a low-risk, rapid-return proposition that makes enterprise-class functionality available to companies that would otherwise have to contend with manual, time-consuming and error-prone product data management processes.

Arena is a complete software solution that provides:

- A centralized system of record for product data to ensure that all stakeholders are always working from the latest information
- Secure, web-based access to allow collaboration and sharing among internal teams and a global supply chain—without loss of control
- Visibility into design and engineering data to enable early and accurate purchasing and manufacturing decisions
- Automated change management and project collaboration to prevent costly mistakes and missed ship dates
